

How to set up your Google "G-Mail" account.

1. On your Google home page, click on "Mail" to the upper left of the screen. If you're wondering what a "Google home page" is, you probably need to set one up. See the "How to set up a Google Account" tutorial.

2. Click on "Sign up for Gmail" on the lower left of the screen.

3. Fill in all the blanks.

Welcome to Gmail

Once you complete this form, your Gmail username will become your new default email address as well as the primary address identifying your Google Account. Your previous email address will remain a part of your Google Account and you may continue to log in with that address if you prefer.

If you wish to create a separate Google Account for use with the Gmail service then click here to first log out and create a new Google Account. (Note: you can only be logged into one Google Account at a time).

Use the password you chose when you created your Google account.

Introduction to Gmail

Congratulations!

You've successfully signed up for Gmail. Here are three things you really should know before you get started.

I'm ready - show me my account

Archive, don't delete

With more than 2,500 megabytes of free storage, you never need to delete another email. Just archive everything and use Gmail's search to find what you need.

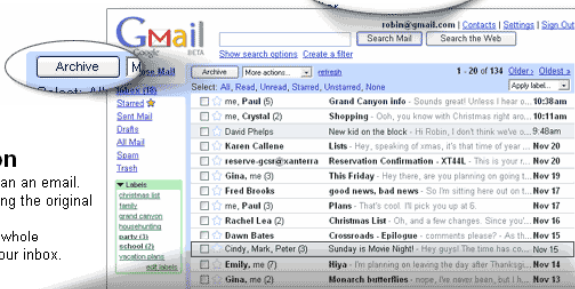

Great search, less filing

Never file another message or create another folder. Use Gmail's built-in Google search to quickly find the email you need.

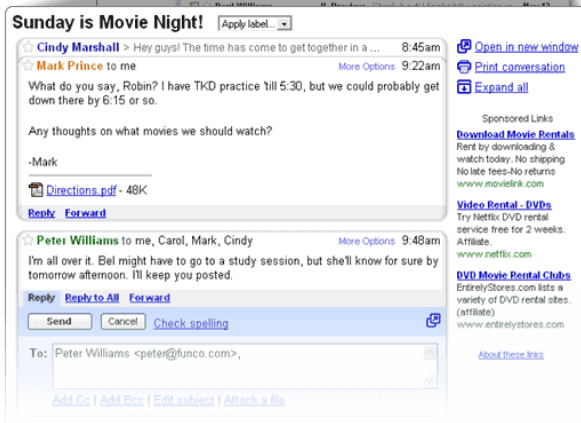

Enjoy the conversation

Each item in your Inbox is more than an email. It's an entire conversation, containing the original note and all the replies to it. When a new message arrives, the whole conversation moves to the top of your inbox.

G-Mail has some really helpful features listed here.

This one is really useful in helping you track correspondence with your clients and prospects
